The image shows a detailed view of marbled paper. The pattern consists of irregular, flowing shapes in various shades of blue, from deep navy to a lighter, almost white blue, set against a white background. The texture appears slightly grainy and organic, characteristic of traditional marbling techniques. In the center of the image, the word "Sodalita" is written in a white, elegant cursive script. The letters are thin and have a slight shadow, making them stand out against the busy, colorful background.
